

President’s Message

Dear Members,

The fall event should be a good one. We are excited to have WWI aircraft participating in the event, thanks to the efforts of Keith Thompson, JR 92, and Steve Wiser. Keith has served as our liaison with the Great War Aeroplane Association and Steve found a local landing strip within five miles of our site. The element of aircraft should bring a new dynamic to our combat.

Thanks to all who completed the GWA survey. We received some very good feedback and suggestions. The survey indicated that there is a desire that two current national events remain focused on 1918, both in scope of participants and tactics of that period. This we will do.

Some of our members want early war events. The G-8 has responded by making it easy for GWA member units to sponsor such events at other times of the year for those interested in doing them. No rental fee is charged for site use. The G-8 will continue to encourage and support these types of events.

I want to remind everyone that the GWA endorses and supports the Virginia War Museum’s event in March. It is a great event and can be a useful recruiting tool. We had a good turnout last year and would like to see more this year. Vince Petty is our representative who has worked with Colin to keep this going. They did a great job last year and those attending seemed to have a lot of fun. Let’s continue to show our support for their efforts and keep it going.

Jim and the site committee continue to work hard to develop an overall multi-phased site development plan. This has been a difficult process because almost anyone you talk to has a different idea of how this should be accomplished. It is further complicated because some people will react on hearsay, even before a proposal is considered or agreed upon. I urge you to contact Jim, your representative, or combat commander if you have any question about what is going on with the site committee before reacting. Even at that, sometimes misunderstandings still occur. So the best rule of thumb is to go to the source with YOUR question. Rumor mills and discussion lists do not always provide all of the information. Again, for questions, go to the source directly.

The G-8 continues to work to improve the site, improve events, and move the organization forward. We know that not everyone agrees, but let us not lose site of our purpose.

I hope with the planes buzzing overhead and machine guns popping away at us, it will get the adrenaline pumping and help put some more fun into the event.

See you there,

—Rob

Fall Combat Event Schedule

November 3-5, 2006

Friday, November 3
- 12 noon–6:00pm Registration shed open
- 5:30pm Modern vehicles must be moved from all areas beyond the registration shed gate (including the battlefield, roads, rear areas, camps) before 5:30pm and parked in the parking lots. The registration shed gate will be locked until 6am Sunday
- 6:00pm Safety meeting on road between trenches
- 6:30 to 6:45pm Stand To.
- 6:45 to 10:00pm Night combat

Saturday, November 4
- 8:00–8:55am Registration shed open
- 9:00 to 10:00am Safety meeting formation for all units (mandatory attendance)
- 10am to 11pm Combat

Sunday, November 5
- 6:00am Gate at registration shed opened. Modern vehicles may access roads to battlefield.
- 7:00–8:30am Battlefield cleanup
- 8:00–9:00am Executive Committee meeting

WW1 Aeroplanes to Attack Newville

My Fellow Reenactors,

I want to thank you all for showing the Pilots of the Great War Aeroplane Association a memorable weekend last spring. I have heard nothing but good comments from them about how they were treated by all and their time they spent with us. Because of this, they will be with us this fall event with their aeroplanes, weather permitting.

I would like to also thank Steve Wiser on behalf of the GWA for his time and effort in locating an airfield. Without Steve’s help in this matter, having Aeroplanes would not have come to pass as soon as it did. The airstrip is approximately five miles from the site which is perfect for all. It is an already existing field that is much larger than they need and is conveniently located right off of the turnpike.

So far I have confirmation from Fred Murrin with his Fokker DR1, Richard Bennett with his Nieuport 23, Butch Witlock with his Nieuport 12 and Marv Story with his Siemens-Schukert. I have sent a letter of invitation to the GWAA's newsletter editor and am awaiting for replies from other pilots in their organization.

The game plan is for the planes to strafe the trenches, dog-fight and take hits from us down below during day light hours. At night they will be joining us in the trenches for combat. They also have no problems being captured and taken prisoner.

Note to the Allies: Last spring Fred Murrin, who is a Rittermeister with twenty years experience flying his Fokker, went into combat and was shot right off. Too bad for the American who shot him. He would have been a nice prize to take back to command.

The pilot who crashed last year at the Dayton air show, Howard Whyte, contacted me and will be attending the event. His plane is in the rebuilding stages; someday he will be flying overhead gunning for the German trenches.

So be prepared for some aerial combat to take place during the fall event and even more great camaraderie afterwards.

Keith Thompson
JR 92 Braunschweiges

Site Matters

This is a quick note to bring membership up to date on Site development. As put forth in the Site Committee Report last May, an agreed upon long term goal is to utilize and develop, in a historically correct and useful manner, more of the land we own. As you can see from the picture, the trench area is really a pretty small part of our land. As most of us are aware, there are limiting factors in the way our trench areas were initially laid out when we arrived at Newville and much of that cannot be undone. By focusing future development on new areas, done in a more sensible fashion, we can add to our variety of experiences and terrain by developing these unused areas. Serious development of these areas is likely to be focused in the years after the mortgage is paid, as we’ll have increased cash flow then.

In the near term, we are tweaking the trench zone and its immediate surroundings to maximize its potential. These are smaller efforts, some of which are necessary to assess longer term possibilities. You’ll see some of the initial efforts of that this November.

Among the things you should notice on arrival are:
- Clearing of the scrub woods, weeds and briars on the northern end of the trench zone between the camp area and the trenches. This will allow for more tactical variation & movement and recovery of lost trenches now overgrown
- Additional trench segments in the CP north.
- Additional trench segments in the Allied Center.
- A prisoner stockade for holding CP POWs.

Items under consideration for next year include:
- Installing fencing needed to allow for a goat herd to graze (meaning defoliate) out property. Defoliation remains one of our biggest problems, and from all indications, four legged lawn mowers may be our last best option.
- Clearing of the southern woods inside the modified road loop (widened as part of 2005 development)
- A practical solution for Death Valley

Exactly how and what happens as we go forward depends a lot on the members wishes. The current site committee is comprised of the Trench Masters, Allied and CP Representatives and Combat Commanders and myself as Chairman. Don’t feel shy about letting your desires be known. You may not get exactly what you want, but your ideas help us give you something in that direction.

Jim Kidd
VP/Chairman GWA Site Committee

Safety Notes

Due to past persistent problems with participants bringing personal modern vehicles into the historical zones of the event while the event is still in progress (from a living history standpoint this is from 6 PM Friday until dawn on Sunday) we are going to take an additional measure this event. The gate at the registration shed will be chained & locked during that period.

It is regrettable that certain individuals have felt that the stated and posted rules do not apply to them, at the expense of their convenience. Besides being an affront to those GWA members who are there to stay in period for the duration of the event (which continues after combat ceases), we have had near miss safety run ins along the roads in the dark. No more.

The ambulance will have the combination, as will the Safety Committee members. The GWA President & VP will also have it. If there is some emergency so compelling that you need to get your vehicle into the historical zone, you can request a written pass from the President or VP. Also, if period conveyance is available, we’ll make every effort to see that those truly needing a lift can get one.

VP/GWA Safety Officer
Results of the 2006 GWA Opinion Survey

The Spring 2006 issue of On the Wire included an opinion survey created by Allied Rep. Jon Kulaga and Central Powers Rep. Merlin Hanson. The responses to the survey have been tabulated and are reproduced below next to the original questions. Exactly 100 members responded to the survey. Not every respondent answered every question, so the responses to some questions do not total 100.

A. Please indicate the best response, one per question

1. What is your age?

2. My educational background is
   High school: 7   Some College: 32   College Grad: 28
   Some Post Grad Work: 12   Masters Degree: 13   Doctorate: 6

3. The amount of time it takes me to travel for an event is 0-2 hrs: 19   2-4 hrs: 32   6-8 hrs: 31   more than 8 hrs: 17

4. I normally arrive at an event
   Thursday: 32   Friday morning: 37   Friday afternoon: 23
   Friday night: 6   Saturday morn.: 0   Saturday aft./night: 0

5. I normally participate in the planned combat event
   Friday Night only: 0   Friday Night and Saturday (day) only: 2
   Friday Night, Saturday, & Saturday Night: 83
   Saturday & Saturday Night: 14   Saturday Night only: 0

6. I normally spend (per year) the following dollar amount on reenacting WWI (to include travel, event fees, lodging, uniforms, weapons, ammunition, reenacting materials, collectibles for reenactment use) under $200: 9   $200 - $500: 42   $500 - $1000: 25
   $1000 - $2000: 19   over $2000: 4

7. I normally journey to the site for work on my unit’s position or the general GWA area (outside of events)
   I do not work on developing the site: 29 once per year: 24    twice per year: 25 three-four times per year: 14    more than four times per year: 7

8. I normally reenact an impression from the following side
   Central Powers (German, Austrian-Hungarian): 44
   Allied (Britain, Australia, Canada, Scotland, US, Russia, French): 56

9. What is your primary source of information about the GWA, G-8 decisions, etc?
   (note: some respondents checked more than one answer)
   On the Wire: 66   Website: 37   Phone contact: 8
   Email lists such as “The Trench Line”: 11
   Unit commander: 40   Other: 4

B. Please circle the appropriate answer to each question

1. I would participate in a tactical event on a Sunday Morning if offered
   Yes: 27    No: 71

2. I would participate in a tactical event all night on Friday if offered
   Yes: 56    No: 44

3. I would participate in a tactical event on Friday Morning if offered
   Yes: 26    No: 73

4. I would participate in a tactical event on Friday Afternoon if offered
   Yes: 54    No: 46

5. I would participate in a tactical event on Thursday Afternoon if offered
   Yes: 13    No: 87

6. I would like an early war event
   Yes: 64    No: 36

7. I would like more tactical open field (late 1918) operations
   Yes: 72    No: 27

8. I like my event to be in the trenches, in my unit’s position
   Yes: 75    No: 21

9. I would like more tactical structure at events (scripted combat at known times)
   Yes: 51    No: 45

10. I would participate in a third or forth event if it could fit my schedule
    Yes: 71    No: 28

11. I would favor a third or fourth event in:
    Summer (June-Aug): 15   Fall (Sept-Oct): 16   Winter (Jan-March): 44

12. It would be OK to spend more GWA funds on getting more special effects for combat (ground charges, air bursts, paying for aircraft fly-in’s)
    Yes: 87    No: 10

13. It would be OK to spend GWA funds on getting and/or providing incentive to have more period transportation throughout the event (wagons, period trucks, period autos)
    Yes: 62    No: 35

14. It would be OK to spend GWA funds on providing a subsidy to those owners of automatic weapons to assist in paying for machine gun ammunition
    Yes: 45    No: 54

15. The GWA should subsidize the making of grenade simulators & mortar bombs by giving units funds to do so
    Yes: 34    No: 65

16. I would participate in an event if it were scheduled over a national holiday (Memorial Day, Labor day, etc.)
    Yes: 35    No: 62

17. I spend more time socializing at an event than participating in combat
    Yes: 22    No: 77

18. Drinking alcohol and partying is a major part of an event for me
    Yes: 22    No: 76

19. We need to recruit more members outside of word of mouth
    Yes: 79    No: 19

20. If you answered yes to the above question, please check all of the following answers that you think apply
    We need to recruit new members by:
    Spending GWA funds for advertising in Military related magazines (“popular press”): 55
Getting all of our suppliers to specifically highlight the GWA: 45

Developing and participating in WWI public “living history” events by providing GWA funds to those participating (ie. “car fare,” ammo subsidy, ration allowance, etc): 40

Spending GWA funds to advertise living history appearances in local newspapers (however small the appearance may be): 25

Spending GWA funds to facilitate travel of GWA members to other time period reenactment events for recruiting purposes: 17

Other: 9

C. Circle what best describes your opinion

1. I feel the historical accuracy in the uniforms that members wear is very important
   strongly disagree: 3  somewhat disagree: 0  don’t know: 0

12. All GWA members should vote on a long term G-8 created site development plan that would be followed by successive GWA administrations:
    strongly disagree: 5  somewhat disagree: 3  don’t know: 9
    somewhat agree: 46  strongly agree: 31

13. I trust the G-8 to execute a thoughtful site development plan that will be in the best interest of the GWA and don’t need to be involved in this level of detail
    strongly disagree: 18  somewhat disagree: 21  don’t know: 13
    somewhat agree: 28  strongly agree: 13

14. Units should be able to develop their general areas (areas bordering their assigned trench areas) as they see fit as long as the units think they meet general WWI authenticity.
    strongly disagree: 11  somewhat disagree: 22  don’t know: 5
    somewhat agree: 39  strongly agree: 17

15. I think we should commit more GWA funds to general site maintenance (port-a-potty purging during events, defoliation, better roads, etc.)
    strongly disagree: 2  somewhat disagree: 7  don’t know: 10
    somewhat agree: 45  strongly agree: 29

16. I think units need to take more responsibility for the upkeep of their positions/areas otherwise face more severe consequences then what is currently the case (loss of trench assignment, placement under probation, unit expulsion)
    strongly disagree: 6  somewhat disagree: 10  don’t know: 8
    somewhat agree: 38  strongly agree: 30

17. The bylaws should be reviewed and an updated version provided to the membership for a vote

    somewhat agree: 38  strongly agree: 25

18. List the one aspect of the hobby you would change if you could
   (The 62 written responses fell generally into the following categories: maintaining, improving, expanding the site; 15; improving, increasing combat; 9; increasing authenticity; 7; more recruiting; 5; less complaining, politics; 5; change the structure of the G-8 or combat commands; 5; remove problem people; 4; grenade & flare issues; 3; other responses 9.)

19. List the one aspect of the hobby you never would change if you could
   (The 48 written responses fell generally into the following categories: the camaraderie & friendship; 13; levels of authenticity; 9; location & ownership of the site; 4; the event schedule & number of events; 4; night & trench combat; 4; the structure of the G-8 or combat commands; 2; uniform & equipment regs; 2; the fun; 2; other responses 8.)

20. Did this survey ask for information that you think the G-8 may find useful?  Yes: 81  No: 7
The Australian Army Nursing Service (AANS) served in more places and in more theaters than any other Australian Imperial Force (AIF) unit during the Great War. Australian nurses served in Egypt, Lemnos, England, France, Belgium, Greece, Salonika, Palestine, Mesopotamia and India. In all, 2,139 served with the Australian Army Nursing Service, and 130 with the Queen Alexandra Imperial Military Nursing Service. A further 423 nurses served in hospitals in Australia. Like all members of the AIF, the Sisters of the AANS AIF had to be volunteers; 25 of them died and 388 were decorated during the war.

The uniform of the AANS underwent considerable modification over the course of the war. Initially, the AANS was uniformed in a similar fashion to the Queen Alexandra’s Imperial Military Nursing Service and wore almost the identical uniform worn by Australian nurses of the Boer War. The initial uniform consisted of:

The 1914 Outdoor Dress

An ankle length grey serge dress with a long sleeved, loose fitting blouson bodice, a six gore skirt and a self fabric belt. The bodice had a yoke at the back but not at the front. This was fastened with 5 buttons (in front) from the neck to the waist and the belt had two buttons. The stand collar and cuffs were edged with narrow, linen liners. On the right sleeve, just above the elbow there was a raised embroidered AANS Badge. A silver version of the Australian “Rising Sun” Collar badge was worn at the throat of the dress. The buttons were the raised Australia map buttons in silver. These were quickly changed to the same oxidized copper buttons worn by AIF/Australian Military Forces Officers. (Silver or copper buttons are correct for any AANS uniform, however all the buttons on a uniform need to match.)

Many nurses tried to keep their silver buttons throughout the war.

The Outdoor Dress was complimented by a grey serge cloak. This is what we would call an overcoat today. It was loose fitting, beltless and had long sleeves. This was similar to the motorists dust coat of the period.

The last major uniform article was a grey serge hip-length cape with a broad scarlet stand and fall collar (see picture above). This was worn over the cloak or over the dress if the cloak was not worn. The cape and cloak remained in service throughout the war.

The 1914 headwear was a close fitting bonnet with a brown silk velvet turn-back brim, a flat grey silk bow behind the brim and a grey silk veil extending from the bow to the small of the back. It was tied under the chin with grey silk ribbons. DO NOT BOTHER to try to reproduce this hat. This hat lasted only a few months and proved completely impractical in Egypt and the Sisters unofficially replaced the bonnet with straw hats, grey veils and/or Woolsey Helmets. From my research I gather not only was the bonnet impractical but the nurses considered it old fashioned and unstylish and worked as hard as they could to “lose” it. The picture above is the only one I have seen so far with a nurse actually wearing one.

The nurses wore black stockings, black boots and grey gloves. The nurses had no military rank in 1914 and nursing proficiency was indicated by dark chocolate colored stripes on the cuff of the dress. A Staff Nurse had a plain grey cuff, a Sister two brown stripes and a Matron had a solid brown cuff.

The 1914 Outdoor Dress could be converted into a mess dress by wearing a scarlet shoulder cape (see Working Dress below) fastened with a silver “Rising Sun” badge over the dress, and a white silk raised cap and veil. Photographs I have seen also indicate that the cotton working dress, with scarlet cape and without the white apron was used as an outdoor dress in hot climates.
Working Dress for the entire war

The Working Dress remained the same for the entire war, except for a slight shortening of the skirt to keep in line with the current fashion.

This was a grey zephyr cotton dress similar in pattern to the 1914 Outdoor Dress, with a detachable starched white collar (photos show both stand and stand-and-fall collars, I believe stand collars were the most prevalent) and cuffs. A Red Cross arm band was sometimes worn on the left arm. There was a starched white apron with a bib front and cross over straps at the back (this could also be unstarched grey zephyr for extremely dirty work). The apron sometimes had a cotton embroidered Red Cross center top.

The nurse wore a scarlet cape fastened with a silver “Rising Sun” badge. The cape also had shoulder straps with “AUSTRALIA” shoulder titles. These could be the curved oxidized copper titles or the more rare straight silver titles.

In the working environment, the nurse wore a one yard square white organza veil, black stockings and black boots or shoes.

The 1916 Outdoor Dress

In 1916 the AANS Outdoor Dress was changed and army officer’s rank was given to all nurses. The outdoor uniform itself changed to a grey serge suit consisting of a Norfolk jacket and a 5 gore skirt. Oxidized rank insignia and “AUSTRALIA” titles were worn on the shoulder straps of the jacket. Army unit color patches were worn on the upper sleeves. In working dress rank insignia was worn on shoulder straps of the red cape. Nurses who served in the forward hospitals on Lemnos during the Gallipoli campaign were awarded the Anzac “A” like other AIF veterans of the Dardanelles (This was one thing the mini-series ANZACS got wrong on the uniform. The nurse, Kate Baker should have been wearing an “A” on her shoulders. Other than that they did a great job on all the uniforms).
On the 1916 Outdoor Jacket the shoulder straps were most commonly detachable and chocolate colored. On some photos the shoulder straps are clearly grey. This may indicate the rank of Staff Nurse versus a Sister or Matron. More research in this area is needed.

For a shirt, the nurse wore a tailored grey blouse or a grey serge dickey front with a stand collar. Matrons wore a chocolate collar on the dickey. The headgear situation was fixed with a grey felt Panama hat with a broad chocolate band. The nurses continued to wear black stockings, black boots or shoes and grey gloves.

The above represents the norm, but there was considerable variation. Since the Nurses were nominally, and after 1916 in fact, officers they provided their own uniforms. Nursing uniforms were not centrally manufactured or issued. Nurses were given a uniform allowance to equip themselves and were allowed to make their own uniforms if they chose. So, there is a considerable variety in the uniforms as can be seen in the period photographs. Patterns used for collars, dress skirts, footwear and headgear show the greatest variety.

Nurses were often allowed considerable freedom over the wearing of uniform items to help combat local conditions as the use of hats instead of bonnets in Egypt in 1915 demonstrates. Photographs also show nurses in Salonika wearing balaclavas, army greatcoats, puttees and boots with shortened skirts. In France, the nurses are seen in greatcoats and rubber boots.

Continued opposition to the use of military rank in the AANS caused it to be abandoned in the 1920s, when chocolate stripes on the sleeve of the Norfolk jacket were introduced. Rank was reintroduced in 1940, strangely echoing the WW1 situation.

At some point during the war, the AANS uniform situation must have gotten out of hand. What follows is an extract of an undated order sent by the Matron in Chief of the AANS, A.I.F.:

ALL MEMBERS OF A.A.N.S., A.I.F.

(1) Attention is drawn to Para.72. of Orders for Australian Imperial Force, Prescribing uniform for Members of the Nursing Service as follows;

Researching the AANS uniform is not an easy task, especially from the U.S. I took on the project as a labor of love in the endeavor to get an authentic AANS uniform for my daughter. My daughter loves to reenact and is nearly as fanatical about authenticity as I am. She can’t wait to come to Newville.

Documenting the research was the difficult part. Most of the information came from an anonymous, undated monograph on the subject provided to me by Mr. Brad Manera of the Military History Section of the Australian War Memorial (AWM). RSM Chris Henschke also provided me with vital information and original documents. The Collections database of the AWM is a great research tool, if only to see the period photos to compare uniforms at different stages of the war.

The AWM Monograph on AANS uniforms provides some intricate detail on the construction of various uniform items taken from original items in the AWM Collection. If anyone would like more of the detail than I can provide here, please contact me at ggormley@cox.net.

Below are listed some other useful resources for researching the AANS of the Great War:

“Decorations, AANS [Australian Army Nursing Service] (June 1919 – March 1920)”, Official record AWM18 9954/52/41. This file lists those who qualified for the 1914–15 Star (service medal).

“Nursing Services, Australian honours and awards RRC [Members of the Royal Red Cross] and ARRC [Associate Members of the Royal Red Cross]”, Official record AWM127 368/1. This resource covers the period 1915–70 and provides full name, title, and the date of the award.
